
Karl Löwith (1897–1973) is a German philosopher and student of Heidegger. In 1934, because of his Jewish descent, he had to leave the Nazi Germany. After returning from emigration he taught at Heidelberg University. His main research interests lied in the field of philosophy of history. His main works are: 'Meaning in History: The Theological Implications of the Philosophy of History' (1949), 'From Hegel to Nietzsche' (1964).

Maximilian Schmitt (1897–1973) is a German philosopher and student of Heidegger. In 1934, because of his Jewish descent, he had to leave the Nazi Germany. After returning from emigration he taught at Heidelberg University. His main research interests lied in the field of philosophy of history. His main works are: 'Meaning in History: The Theological Implications of the Philosophy of History' (1949), 'From Hegel to Nietzsche' (1964).

Hermann Lübbe is a German philosopher. He was a professor of ordinary philosophy and political theory at the University of Zurich. From 1975 to 1978 he was the head of the German Society for Philosophy. He became widely known for his statements on current political issues. He belongs to the school of Joachim Ritter. He is the author of numerous works on political philosophy, the most recent of which are: 'Modernization of the Winners: Religion, Sense of History, Direct Democracy, and Morality' (2004), 'Civilization Ecumenism: Cultural, Technical, and Political Globalization' (2005), 'From Parteigenosse to a Citizen of the State' (2007).

Irina Soboleva — politologist, junior researcher at the Laboratory of Political Researches of the Higher School of Economics. She is the author of a number of articles and book chapters on political economy of Russian regions. Her research focuses on political economy and political theory of authoritarianism and political science methodology. She carries out empirical and field research in several joint international projects with Columbia University, Indiana University and Emory University (USA).
E-mail: ivsoboleva@hse.ru.

Carl Schmitt (1888–1985) is a German political philosopher and law theorist, a specialist in constitutional and international law. He was a professor of law in the universities of Greifswald (since 1921), Bonn (since 1922), Cologne (since 1933), Berlin (from 1933 to 1945; discharged in the course of denazification). He was a Prussian state councilor (since 1933). His main works include: ‘Political Theology’ (1922), ‘The Concept of the Political’ (1927), ‘Constitutional Theory’ (1928), ‘Legality and Legitimacy’ (1932), ‘The Guardian of the Constitution’ (1933), ‘The Leviathan in the State Theory of Thomas Hobbes’ (1938), ‘The Nomos of the Earth in the International Law of the Jus Publicum Europaeum’ (1950), ‘Theory of the Partisan’ (1975).